QUOTATIONS in PERSPECTIVE

DISARMAMENT: "There is nothing to choose here between the interests of the nuclear and the non-nuclear nations: There is a terrible and inescapable equity in our common danger."

—President Johnson, in a message to the Disarmament Conference in Geneva.

OPPENHEIMER: "Not only did he help create nuclear weapons but he was one of the important people who tried to get others to understand what the weapons meant."

—Dr. Carl Kaysen, who succeeded him as director of the Institute of Advanced Study in Princeton, N.J., on the death of Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer.

CIA: "There is something about the way the CIA has been functioning that is casting a shadow over our historic positions, and I feel that we need to correct it."

—Former President Harry S. Truman in 1963, nearly 20 years after his administration established the CIA.

BUDGET HASSLE: "You've just created the campaign issue for the next 30 days."

—Gov. Claude Kirk, to the Democratic Cabinet members.

"The big issue will be if the Legislature is willing to put the taxpayers' money where the governor's mouth was last November."

—Atty. Gen. Earl Faircloth, in reply.

POLITICS: "I am just a Republican and, by golly, anyone who is a Republican is a Republican, as far as I am concerned."

—Gov. George Romney of Michigan, on party loyalties.

EDUCATION: "None of the financial costs or administrative adjustments necessary to bring about integrated quality education will be as costly to the quality of American life in the long run as the continuation of our present educational policies and practices."

—U.S. Commission on Civil Rights report.

RELIGION: "It's now reached the point where the only limit on the number of dialogues is that there aren't enough Jews to go around."

—Rabbi Arthur Gilbert, official of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith on the growing ecumenical movement among Christians and Jews.

SPORTSMANSHIP: "Pappas may walk up to me in Tampa and punch me in the nose, but I don't care. I just want to see him give the ball club an honest effort."

—Joe Nuxhall, Cincinnati Reds' pitcher, after accusing teammate Milt Pappas of not giving a full effort last season.
